HALL OF FAME HISTORY

Nation's Capital Area Bowling Association

On May 23, 1963, the Washington City Tenpin Bowling Association, now known as the Nation's Capital Area Bowling Association, established its Hall of Fame.

It was designed to honor those individuals who have been outstanding in achievements as bowlers and/or for their efforts in furthering the sport in the Washington, D.C. area.

All NCABA members are eligible to submit names of candidates for consideration in either the Meritorious Service or Bowling Achievement categories to the Hall of Fame Committee.

All of the charter members possessed a record of achievement dating back to the early history of tenpin bowling in this area. The four chosen—Matthew R. Bennie, Harry Krauss, Billy Rapp, and Rod Thomas—were leading figures in a tenpin boom, possibly without parallel in the nation.

Washington, D.C. Area Women's Bowling Association

The Washington, D.C. Area Women's Bowling Association Hall of Fame was formed in 1980, with Bea Bennie as its charter member. It honors female bowlers who have contributed significantly to the sport of tenpin bowling in the Washington, D.C. area.

Hall of Famers are chosen for their meritorious service, bowling achievement, and/or outstanding leadership.

Nominations can be made by any WDCAWBA member.

GLENN A. CALLAWAY

2004 NCABA Hall of Fame Inductee

Glenn A. Callaway is a native Washingtonian who was educated in the D.C. Public School System. He started bowling at age 15 in 1968 under the guidance of future WDCAWBA Hall of Famer Martha Burton, who was a leader of the junior league at Bowl America Glassmanor.

As his bowling skills increased, he broadened his base and bowled in a variety of leagues in many centers across Maryland and Virginia. He also participated in the TNBA Travel League, visiting many houses up and down the east coast.

His bowling career has introduced him to many close friends and long-lasting relationships, including that of his wife Linda of 21 years.

Some of his bowling achievements include:

- ☞ 1985-1986 NCABA Top 10 Ranking, 203.13 average.
- ☞ 1992 Greater Washington Bowling Senate Hall of Fame inductee.
- ☞ 1996 Bill Rhodman Tournament champion; finalist five times.

- ☞ Six 800 series, including an 812 and 823 on successive evenings at Parkland and AMF Marlow Heights.
- ☞ An untold number of 700 series.

Glenn A. Callaway’s sterling credentials merit him an honored place in the NCABA Hall of Fame.

ANTHONY CHAPMAN

2004 NCABA Hall of Fame Inductee

Anthony Chapman started bowling at age 12, but he began to concentrate more on his bowling skills following a football injury to his left arm that ended his career as the quarterback for DeMatha High School. Since that time, he has accomplished a great deal as a bowler:

Won Maryland Tenpin Council Scholarship and used it to attend the University of Maryland. ... In his final two years of YABA competition, he averaged over 200 in his league at Parkland.

Named Amateur Bowler of the Year by Bowling Digest and Bowlers Journal magazines.

Anthony, a member of the Greater Washington Bowling Senate Hall of Fame, won the Nation's Capital Area Masters scratch event five times, has rolled 22 perfect games and 14 800 series (with a high of 836), and he carried the highest individual average for regular team members in the NCABA the past two seasons, averaging 238 in the RTR Classic league at Rinaldi's Riverdale Bowl for 69 games in 2002-2003 and 238 for 67 games in 2003-2004.

Anthony Chapman has demonstrated excellence on the lanes locally, nationally, and around the world. He is an outstanding addition to the NCABA Hall of Fame.

KENDRA GAINES

2004 WDCAWBA Hall of Fame Inductee

Kendra Gaines started bowling at the age of four and did all of her youth, collegiate, and adult league bowling in the D.C. area before turning pro in 1998. She bowled in leagues at Andrews Air Force Base, AMF Annandale, Crofton, Fort Meade, and Bowl America Shirley, and she ran the pro shops at Andrews and Fort Meade.

Her 217 average at Annandale topped all Washington, D.C. Area Women's Bowling Association members in 1994-1995, when she averaged 211 at Shirley and, while also a member of NCABA, 209 at Crofton (and 222 in 1995-1996). She was the first area woman to bowl two 300 games in one season.

Until turning pro, Kendra was best known for her accomplishments as a four-time Team USA member, representing and winning gold medals for the United States all over the world, including Brazil, Canada, the Dominican Republic, Malaysia, and South Africa, and South Korea.

After resigning from Team USA in 1998 to pursue a professional career, Kendra was a rising star on the Professional Women's Bowling Association Tour until it folded last year. She quickly earned respect on the tour, winning the Greater Sebring (Fla.) Open in only her fourth pro event. Kendra was fourth in earnings ($67,800) and average (213.57) for the final full season of the PWBA in 2002, a year in which she made eight television appearances and won her second career title.

She has excelled in WIBC Tournament competition, recording a then-record all-events score of 2,039 (226.56) in the Classic Division of the 1997 event in Reno, Nev., and rolling the tournament's first-ever 800 series (812) in 2000, also in Reno. In addition, she won the 1998 Classic Doubles with Lynda Norry (Quad Cities, Illinois-Iowa) and has second- and third-place finishes in the Queens.

Other notable accomplishments/honors/credentials include:

- ☞ Seven 300 games (including one on a Sport Bowling condition) and two 800 series (812, 811).
- ☞ USA Silver Certified Coach, Junior Team USA 2004 Assistant Coach, and University of Central Florida Assistant Coach.
- ☞ Four PWBA regional championships and four Women's All-Star Association (WASA) titles.
- ☞ 1992 — Second Team Collegiate All-American while at Essex Community College in Baltimore and National Junior College Athletic Association (NJCAA) All-Events champion (1992-1993).
- ☞ 1995 & 1996 — Bowlers Journal All-Amateur Team (Bowler of the Year in 1996).
- ☞ 1996 — Bowling Digest Amateur Bowler of the Year.
- ☞ 1996 & 1997 — Bowling Writers Association of America Amateur Bowler of the Year.
- ☞ 1999 — Bowlers Journal Doubles champion with John Gaines in Syracuse, N.Y.
- ☞ 2002 & 2003 — WIBC Second Team All-American.
- ☞ 2004 — Nearly becomes the first woman to win a Professional Bowlers Association regional title as she finishes second at a PBA event in Fort Bragg, N.C., losing 257-256 in the championship match.

Kendra Gaines has a proven record of accomplishment on the lanes wherever she has bowled. She is a superb addition to the WDCAWBA Hall of Fame.

STEVE GRAVES

2004 NCABA Hall of Fame Inductee

Steve Graves was born and raised in Montgomery County, Maryland and started bowling over 40 years ago, joining his first youth league at the old Fair Lanes Wheaton Plaza at age 10. With the support of his parents, he continued advancing in the sport.

As a teenager, he helped form a high school league at Fair Lanes Wheaton Plaza. Steve later helped coach a number of youth leagues there and at Bowl America Twinbrook.

He introduced the sport to his younger brother, Gary, and enjoyed league bowling with him. When Steve first met his future wife, Tina, several of their dates took place in a bowling center, and in later years, their three children were regular visitors to the lanes.

Steve continued to bowl in numerous leagues and in various houses, and he has bowled in the association's championship tournament every year since 1970.

In 1984, he became interested in joining the Nation's Capital Area Bowling Association board, and the following year he was elected as a director for the following houses: Wheaton Triangle, Congressional Plaza, and Bowl America Twinbrook. He currently serves at AMF Shady Grove.

In 1987, Steve began attending the annual American Bowling Congress Convention as a delegate, and he has missed only one convention in the last 17 years. He has worked on or chaired almost every NCABA committee, and he currently serves as chairman of the BVL and Nominating committees. He was involved in starting the Ways and Means Committee and has worked at every association tournament since 1985.

Steve was elected NCABA fifth vice president in 1988 and became association president for the 2002-2003 season.

His high average is 198, with a high game of 279 and a top series of 739.

Steve has earned numerous trophies and awards over the years and has been extremely proud to share these victories with his family. In addition, he has made lifelong friends through bowling and has enjoyed sharing his love for the game with his family and friends. With his encouragement, two of his children and their spouses are regular league bowlers, and he has begun introducing the game to his nine grandchildren.

Steve Graves's service and contributions to area bowling have garnered him a special spot in the NCABA Hall of Fame.

VINCE JOZWIAK

2004 NCABA Hall of Fame Inductee

Vince Jozwiak was elected to the NCABA board of directors in 1992, and from the beginning, he was a most active member. He led the way in converting the association's computer operating system from Xenix to Microsoft Windows, securing new machines and software, then installing the necessary software and providing training to the office staff and any interested board member. He provided support for the system for years. Vince often would respond to a problem at the office after a long business trip and even late at night.

From the mid-1990s until 2002, Vince spent countless evening hours each summer "putting to bed" the NCABA/WDCAWBA Annual Average Book. Some nights, it was well after midnight before he left the association offices.

He was the driving force behind the association obtaining its own Web site—ncaba.org—and he spent several months preparing for its official launch in 1997 and then served the first five years as its Webmaster.

In 1998, Vince was responsible for the reinstatement of the NCABA Top 10 Ranking, and he prepared the official ranking for several years while serving as chairman of the Ranking Committee.

The association attained the number one ranking for funds collected for the Bowlers to Veterans Link (BVL) largely in part to Vince's hard work and persuasive manner. In addition, he started the "Bowl-a-Thon" at the BVL Kickoff each year.

Vince fostered a good relationship with the WDCAWBA through his work on that organization's computer system and his ability to get along with everyone.

On the lanes, he once finished 11th in the NCABA ranking, and he contributed a 777 series to lead his team to the 1994 BOWL Magazine Tournament title. His high game, series, and average in the NCABA were 290, 790, and 218, respectively (right-handed) and 289, 735, and 193 (left-handed).

Vince Jozwiak was an exemplary member of the association's board, and he is a most worthy addition to the NCABA Hall of Fame.
